

Milan Email Processor

Extract critical heading metadata from emails

In most jurisdictions, law firms own the internal correspondence and memorandums of individual engagements. Consequently, most legal firms want to remove all internal email files before transferring requested matter files. This is particularly labor intensive, of course, because it requires manually sifting through large archives of emails.

Milan Email Processor extracts critical heading metadata such as to, from, and cc. Once extracted, it determines whether emails are internal or external correspondence. When paired with Milan Admin Export, professionals can control whether internal or external emails are exported.

Product Features

- › Processes all email in HP WorkSite
- › Extracts metadata around email
- › Determines whether messages are internal or external and makes them available to workspace or document-level exports
- › Works with Milan Admin Export

Milan Email Processor extracts critical heading metadata such as to, from, and cc. Once extracted, it determines whether emails are internal or external correspondence.

The Platform

The Milan for Information Governance family of products is for organizations that use WorkSite, DeskSite, and FileSite (HP WorkSite product family) as their document management system. Milan promotes greater adoption of the WorkSite product family by empowering users to do more by improved administration without IT intervention.

For organizations that are focused on improving collaboration and work processes, Milan enables a more standardized approach in the WorkSite. For the information governance and risk management professional, Milan enables processes such as transfer of client files and confidentiality management, including ethical walls, litigation holds, data leakage, and investigations. Milan also provides functions for SharePoint and WorkSite Records Manager (WRM, formerly IRM).
